

13985 INDIAN CHURCH, PUEBLO OF SANDIA, NEAR ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.

COPR. FRED HARVEY.

POST CARD

SANDIA is a small pueblo occupying a gentle rise from the bottom lands on the west bank of the Rio Grande. It may be easily seen as the train approaches the small station of Alameda, a short distance above Albuquerque. It is also easily reached by stage from Albuquerque. The population is about 150. The church is comparatively modern.
